Vienna, April 22. N. S.

A Boat being arriv'd here from Bavaria, with the Equipage of some Person of great Quality, 'tis whisper'd that a Minister is coming to the Queen from his Electoral Highness. As to the new Treaty betwixt this Court and the Saxon, nobody doubts now but 'tis on the Point of being concluded: What the Terms are indeed is unknown, tho' it seems certain that the King of Poland will send 8000 Men of his best Troops to the Army in Silesia. An Officer of the said Army writes to his Father the Count de V—, that when the last Post was coming away, there arriv'd an Express from the Prussian Army, who deliver'd a Packet of Letters to the Velt-Marshall de Neuperg.

At the End of the Account publish'd by the Court in our Gazettes of the Battle in Silesia, we find a Letter of the 18th from Neifs, in Substance as follows: viz.

Since the 12th, that the Army return'd hither after the Battle, the Horse are canton'd in the neighbouring Villages, and the Foot were quarter'd in the Town till this Day, when they march'd out to Quarters in the adjacent Villages. The Sick and Wounded Men are sent to the Hospital of the Army, which is erected at Neustadt in Moravia. The Enemy are very quiet at Ohlau, Grotkau, and the Neighbourhood, which is a Proof that they have got nothing to boast of in the late Battle since they make not the least Motion to come near us. We can't yet say any Thing positive as to their Loss, but it must be considerable, because there are at least a thousand of their Horses in our Army; and the Confusion must have been very great in theirs, considering that after their Right Wing had been defeated by our Cavalry, Part of the King's Retinue retir'd towards Lewen, where some made a Halt, and cover'd the Bridges with Chevaux de Frise, while the others pass'd the Neifs and went to the Gates of Oppela, into which the General Baronai had but just thrown 100 Hussars, who made them Prisoners of War. This Part of the King's Retinue consisted of 17 Officers, and there was one of the King's Led Horses, which is presented to the General in Chief: The other Horses above-mentioned were sold Yesterday to the highest Bidder. The Prisoners are to be sent to Moravia. No doubt a Cartel will be soon agreed on for the Exchange of those on both Sides. All Hands are at work on the Fortifications of this City. The Loss sustain'd in the late Battle diminishes every Day, by the Return of a great Number of Soldiers to their Colours, who separated from the Army in the Retreat. Those already come back are computed at 600.

EXTRACT of an Advertisement from the CRAFTSMAN, April 11, 1741.

WHEREAS in this Paper of the 16th Day of February, 1740. there was inserted the following Paragraphs:

Nothing is more necessary to a Squadron of Ships, which are design'd for real Service, than to supply them with good and wholesome Provisions, especially in long Voyages, and sultry Climates.—I hope therefore the strictest Care is taken as to this Particular, and that the Orders from above are punctually obey'd at the Victualling Office; tho' a Rumour flies about, that some Complaints of this Kind have been lately made; and I am even inform'd that there is a Person who will undertake to prove that great Quantities of Beef and Pork actually stunk before it was sent abroad.— This, if true, must be owing either to the Badness of the Commodities, when bought up, to the Want of Skill in Salting them, or to some corrupt Gains made by Those concern'd in the Management of our Victualling.

I have heard one Man declare that having contracted to supply the Navy with a large Number of Bullocks, and neglecting to make the usual Present, upon such Occasions, the Cattle were thrown back upon his Hands, under Pretence that they were not fit for his Majesty's Service; upon which He privately employ'd another Man to offer the very same Oxen, and by tipping a Bank-Note of Two Hundred Pounds into proper Hands, they were reported to be very good Meat, and accordingly received.

Which said Paragraphs have given great and just Offence to the Gentlemen concern'd in the Direction and Management of the Office for Victualling his Majesty's Navy, as it carry'd an Imputation of Neglect or Corruption in that Office, and as it might tend to discourage Sailors from serving on board his Majesty's Navy, to the great Injury to the Publick.

And whereas an Information has been since granted against me, as the Publisher of a scandalous Libel, for printing the said Paragraphs;

And whereas the Commissioners of the said Office have often propos'd to pardon me, (as far as in them lay) if I would produce or acquaint them with the Name of the Person, or Persons, who were the Authors of the said scandalous Paragraphs;

I do hereby publicly declare, that I received the same by the Penny-Post, in a Letter, and that I never knew the Author, or Writer, or Director thereof, nor the Hand in which it is written; and that I have deliver'd the same Letter to the said Commissioners, in order to empower them to find out (if they can) the Writer thereof.

And I declare that I had no other Foundation or Authority for inserting the said Paragraphs besides the said Anonymous Letter; that I was greatly impos'd on thereby; and that I am heartily sorry for the great Offence I may imprudently have given; I do heartily beg Pardon of the Publick, and of the Gentlemen concern'd in the Direction or Management of the said Office, and desire of them that they would, in Compassion to me, (tho' I have thus deceived the Publick through a great Inadvertency) stay the Trial of the said Information; and I do faithfully promise that I will do all in my Power to assist in detecting the base Author of so dangerous a Scandal; and will be more exact after of inserting any Articles of News for which I cannot produce the Author or Authors.

Paris, April 26.

His Majesty being inform'd that the Gaming to often prohibited by his Orders, has, for some Years past, been established in all Parts, and even almost in all the Streets of this City; by which means Apprentices, Journeymen, and Servants, after having lost the Money trusted with them, or robb'd their Masters, have become Bankrupt, the Families been oblig'd to give large Money, and the Officers of his Majesty's have been ruin'd: And whereas at several of Gaming-Tables, Goods of all Sorts have been, admitted as Pawns to satisfy the Avarice of others, which have been too often purloin'd from the Owners; And whereas at some Games all Ranks, and of both Sexes, are admitted as a Blind, to cover the most criminal Comportments: And as all these Disorders so contrary to his Majesty's Intentions demand the most speedy and effectual Remedy, he thinks it absolutely necessary to renew all the former Prohibitions; and he does again expressly forbid all Persons, of what Dignity, and Condition soever they are, Gaming-Houses, or to play at the Games prohibited by his Majesty's former Orders; particularly at Quinqué Noix (a Game with two Dice) Game at Cards Basset, Pharo, Even or Odd, or of like Sort, under what Names and Forms soever, no not even in the Royal Palaces, on Prisonment, &c.

April 29. ## IRELAND.

Dublin, April 21.

A Letter from on board the Falmouth Man of Port Royal Harbour, dated Jan. 11th and 12th.

We now the Pleasure to tell you, Sir Chaloner, that his Fleet are safely arrived with the Transports, and were cruising for them, and had the Honour to bring them into Port Royal Harbour. We are now in the Line, in which are 8 Ships of 80 Guns each! When Sir Chaloner Ogle was on board from Hispaniola, they saw to the Southward a large Ship (this happen'd the 9th instant) and threw out a Signal for the Orford, Prince of Wales, Weymouth, Dunkirk and York to be on the watch. They were late in the Night before they came up, and Lord Augustus Fitzroy in the Orford, the first sailing Ship, came up the first and hailed them, but received no Answer; then in Spanish, but all to the same Effect, and the Ships still kept jogging on; upon which Lord Augustus shot to bring the Headmost to, who answered: Lord Augustus immediately ran up to the Ship next to him, and poured in a broadside, which was returned with the utmost fury. The Orford's Main-mast, and carry'd Mainsail, kill'd six of his Men, and seven more: Among the six that fell was one Captain of Marines. Upon this the Lord Augustus was surrounded by these four large Ships, but good Luck to disable one of them, he made good till the Prince Frederick, Lord Aubrey and the Weymouth, Capt. Knowles, came which they all fell to it heartily, and would not have blown them out of the Water, with the assistance of the other Ships who were just come up. One of the French Captains thought proper to flag of Truce on board; upon which Lord Augustus, when he found they were French, they did not answer to our Hail. The Exchange was, They were upon their own, and did not desire any Conversation: The Fight was over at five o'clock, and the next Morning they parted: The French were 74 Guns each, and the others were 74 had not in the Morning either Mails or Rigging standing, and had received so many Shots that they were forced to heel their Ships to stop their Leaks, and it was supposed Numbers were kill'd."

"We are all getting ready; Carthage is the Word; we shall carry 30 Sail of the Line, and 12000 Soldiers, under the Command of Brigadier-General Wentworth, with 2 Bombs and 10 Fire-ships."

"I believe the Siege may last, if they behave as gallant as they usually do, about 10 Days. There are now in Port-Royal Harbour 250 Sail of us, and such a Noise in that little Town between Soldiers and Sailors that you never knew the like. I hope shortly to give you the Particulars of Don Blas's Capitulation."

Another Gentleman, an Officer on board Admiral Vernon's own Ship has wrote a Letter to his Father in this City, giving the same Account; with this further Particular, that they have fresh Provisions of all Sorts in great Plenty from New-England, New York, &c. and much cheaper than they can be bought here.

Last Night died the most Noble, most Puissant and Right Honourable Henry O'Brien, Earl of Thomond, Viscount Tadcaster, Baron of Ibrican, the second Peer of Ireland, Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the County of Essex; and one of his Majesty's Privy-Council in Ireland.

His Lordship dying without Issue, the Title is extinct.

LONDON, April 30.

We hear from Chippenham in Wiltshire, that Sir Edmund Thomas, Bart. who has been for some time making Application to be chosen a Representative of that Borough, has now given up all Petitions to it; and there being no Probability of Success there, that he is to go in a few Days to offer himself a Candidate at Cardiff in Glamorganshire, the greatest Part of his Estate lying near that Place.

The City's warm Affection,
They vow'd his Cause should be maintain'd
At London's next Election.

But now their Heat is quite blown off,
Nor in their List we find him;
Their Champions at the Motion scoff
Let them who sent him mind him.

Yesterday, at a very numerous Meeting of the Livery of this City, it was unanimously agreed to support the Election of the following Gentlemen who were then put in Nomination to represent this City in Parliament, viz.

Sir Edward Bellamy;
Sir John Barnard;
Mr. Alderman Perry; and

Yesterday the East India Company receiv'd Advice by a Danish Ship from East India, that their Packet-boat arrived at the Cape of Good Hope from London the 13th of January last; that only the Wilmington, Capt. Maddox, and the Colchester, Capt. Mickelthied, junior, from East India for London, were then at the Cape, and would sail from thence the Beginning of February for St. Helena, for which Place the Haeslingfield, Capt. Houghton had been fail'd some Days.

We hear from Durham of a most bloody and cruel Murder that was committed a few Days since at a Country Farm-house called Gallylaw, near Sedgfield, viz. A Neighbour of one John Charlton had a Horse who misfortunistly fell into a Hole, upon which Charlton and his Man were call'd to help him out, which they readily granted; but Charlton's Wife having told her Maid that she was afraid they would not have Help enough, and order'd her to go to their Assistance; no sooner she was gone than she (the Wife) lock'd the Door, took an Ax, and barbarously kill'd her three Boys, and afterwards, unhappy Woman! cut her own Throat. When Charlton return'd to the House, he was oblig'd to break in at the Window, and to his great Surprise found his Wife and all his Children wallowing in their Blood. She was observ'd to be often melancholy for some time before, and complain'd that Things were so dear that she could not get Bread for her Family; and that her Neighbours prosper'd better than she, &c. which could not be the Case, the Man being in very good Circumstances. The oldest Boy was about nine Years old, and the youngest was not quite dead when the Father came home, but died immediately.

Yesterday the Right Hon. Sir Robert Walpole took Leave of his Majesty, he being to set out for his Seat at Houghton-Hall in Norfolk this Day, in order to be elected Member for the Borough of Lynn in the said County; for which Place he has, with great Honour, Reputation, and Integrity, been Representative for the last Ten Parliaments: And we hear that he will be chosen without Opposition.

This Day Se'night is the Day fix'd for his Majesty's Embarkation.

Yesterday the Right Hon. the Earl of Strafford and his Lady, Daughter to his Grace the Duke of Argyle, were introduced to his Majesty, and were most graciously received.
